

Match the tracks

deer

deer hooves make long prints like sausages with pointy ends

heron

herons have big feet and long toes to help them balance and stop them sinking in the mud

squirrel

squirrels leave complicated tracks, lots of pad and claw marks

otter

otters have five toes, you can sometimes see webbing between them

dog

dog paw prints have four toes with claw marks and a rear pad

badger

badgers have five toes and the large pad behind them is shaped like a kidney

cat

cats have paw prints similar to dogs, only smaller

duck

ducks have webbed feet to help them swim, they leave very distinctive marks in the mud

fox

foxes have four toes, the rear pad is usually the same size as the toes

